Overbury Collection 1777 - 1963; Box and Folder; Barnard Archives and Special Collections, Barnard Library, Barnard College.

Biography

Bertha Van Riper Overbury was born in 1873 in Jersey City, New Jersey. She graduated from Barnard College in 1896—the first class to complete all four years of college at Barnard. Overbury had become interested in collecting books while studying at Barnard and spent much of her free time in bookshops on Madison Avenue. Later she moved to California and lived with her husband, who was a manufacturer of asphalt roofing, in San Marino. She lived just blocks from the Huntington Library and spent the majority of her time there reading.

She began collecting first editions of English women and men writers, but it was not until she read an article in The Colophon by E. Miriam Lone on “Some Bookwomen of the Fifteenth Century” that she had the idea to focus her collection on American women authors. After receiving a letter from a rare book dealer in New York offering her a volume of manuscripts by fifteen American women, she decided to purchase it with the goal of collecting one signed autographed letter and one signed autographed manuscript for each of the 760 American women authors then represented in her collection. In 1950, she decided to donate her collection to Barnard College and worked with librarian Esther Greene and English professor Eleanor M. Tilton to collect materials that would be especially valuable for Barnard’s students until her death at the age of ninety in 1963.

Collection Scope and Content Summary

The Overbury Collection dates from 1777 to 1963. Materials consist of nineteen hundred rare book editions and nearly one thousand letters and manuscripts by American authors, primarily American women authors. The manuscripts and letters contain material by such authors as Abigail Adams, Louisa May Alcott, Frances Hodgson Burnett, Willa Cather, Helen Keller, Edna St. Vincent Millay, and Gertrude Stein. A few manuscripts and letters given by English professor Eleanor M. Tilton and some by male authors are part of the Collection though their provenance is unclear.

The collection contains catalog cards created by Overbury as well as ones once used by the Library to provide access to the collection and book plates for the book spines that were not used are also included. Personal correspondence and notebooks of Overbury as well as Xerox copies of her correspondence with Seven Gables Bookshop are among the materials. The originals are housed with the rare books at Columbia. Clippings collected by Overbury have been cut from the New York Times, New York Herald Tribune, and Saturday Review and occasionally include notes by Overbury or correspondence with dealers. Rare books housed in the Rare Book and Manuscript Library at Columbia University include a 1758 edition of poems by Anne Bradstreet, first editions of Fannie Hurst, Eudora Welty, Katherine Anne Porter, and Cornelia Otis Skinner and editions of Phillis Wheatley and Mercy Otis Warren.

Collection Arrangement

Items are arranged into the following series:

Series 1, Correspondence and Manuscripts

Boxes 1-8, 12, 13, and 14, the letters and manuscripts, are arranged alphabetically by author at the item level. Box 8 is arranged alphabetically by author at the item level and contains manuscripts and letters by female authors donated by Barnard English Professor Eleanor M. Tilton and male authors, but the provenance of these materials is not known.

Series 2, Clippings

Boxes 15-21 containing clippings Overbury collected related to the collection, are arranged at the folder level by the catalog card number they correspond to or book title.

Series 3, Books and Related Materials

Boxes 11, 22, and 23 contain books by authors in the collection and their related materials, please contact the archivist for an inventory of the books.

Series 4, Card Catalog Records

Boxes 9-10 contain catalog cards in their original order.
